Reaction time is an important part of driving. Crashes happen when we don't react fast enough to vehicles around us. Age is usually thought to reflect slower reaction time, but slow reaction time can affect any age. The Brake Reaction Timer is a quick and easy way to find out what your reaction time is and learn suggestions to improve it if necessary. The exercise is free and only takes a few minutes. It is time well spent if it will enable you to drive safer for a longer period of time!
